Disclaimer for Testing with Stakeholders

The current Mappa website (<https://mappa.org.au>) is a 'beta version' and is currently undergoing testing. Beta testing is a period of testing of a computer product prior to commercial release and represents the last stage of testing.

The Mappa website, software and all content contained on the site (collectively the Mappa website) are provided on an "as is" and "as available" basis and the user must exercise their own skill, judgment and care with respect to their access, use and reliance on the Mappa Website.

Mappa, the Aboriginal Health Council of Western Australia (AHCWA), AHCWA member services, project partners and consultants (collectively the Mappa Stakeholders) make no warranties, whether express or implied, as to the suitability or usability of the Mappa website.

To the maximum extent permitted under the law, the Mappa Stakeholders will not be liable for any loss, liability, costs, damages or expenses, whether direct, indirect, special or consequential, suffered by any user as a result of their access, use or reliance on or of the Mappa website.

Browsing, downloading or uploading of content to the Mappa website 'beta version' is done at the user's own risk and the user will be solely responsible for any errors, interference or damage to the user's computer system or loss of data or information that results from the user's access, use and reliance on or of the Mappa website.

Every effort is made to keep the Mappa website up and running smoothly, however, Mappa takes no responsibility for, and will not be liable for, the Mappa website being unavailable whether temporarily or otherwise. Should a user encounter any bugs, glitches, lack of functionality or other problems on the Mappa website, they should immediately contact us via telephone, email or the feedback form contained within the Mappa website.
